DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 1 and 4-5 are objected to because of the following informalities. Claim 1 recites "modulus of the of the belt". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 3. Claims 1, 4-5, 7, 9, 12-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Iwama et al. in view of Kawaguchi et al.

Iwana et al. teaches a belt having a resin strip formed as a scale with reflect/non-reflecting portions that are used to detect the movement of the belt. Iwana et al. does not teach the elasticity for the belt or scale.

Kawaguchi et al. teaches a resin strip 3 for reinforcing a belt 10. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the teaching of Kawaguchi et al. with the belt of Iwana et al. to obtain a belt with less cracks and ruptures.

Iwama et al. in view of Kawaguchi et al. do not suggest that the scale has a plural magnetic and non-magnetic portions. The examiner takes official notice that it is known in the art to use a scale having magnetic and non-magnetic portions as a part of a speed detecting system for a belt. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a magnetic scale with the teaching of Iwama et al. since a magnetic scale to detect the speed of the rotating belt. Iwama et al. does not teach the Young's modulus of the belt. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to select the appropriate Young's modulus for the belt since where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation. In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2, 6, 8, 10, 14, and 16 are allowed.

Prior Art

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Boothe et al. and (Adachi, Kiuchi et al., Bando et al. (which teach the Young's modulus for intermediate transfer belts)) teach pertinent prior art.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 9-15-2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argued that Iwama in view of Kawaguchi et al. does not suggest the Young's modulus in the range of 3000 to 7000 Pascal. However, Morikoshi et al. teaches the importance of selecting the range for the Young's modulus for the intermediate transfer member.

Applicant argues that claim 9 has not been addressed. However, the drawing figures 2, 5, 6, show how the scale is read. Applicant also argues with respect to the magnetic scale. Both the teaching of a magnetic scale is old in speed control for a rotating belt and controlling timing or speed of a belt based on the results of reading a scale on a belt with a reading device. Just in case a teaching has not been cited for this teaching, Boothe et al. teaches al. is cited above.

Finally, please review the claim 1 with respect to the scale being used to detect and the recitation of movement without the recitation of means to move the belt. The claims remain rejected as discussed above.
